$100,000 TO BE USED BY BANKER TO PUNISH GANG

Isidor Wormser Accompanies Annie Thornton, One of His Servants, to Court to Aid in Prosecution of Thugs Who Mistreated Her.

A crime so dastardly that Isidor Wormser, the millionaire banker, said he would give $100,000 for the conviction of the perpetrators was given publicity to-day in the West Side Court. The victim is Annie Thornton, a servant for years in the Wormser household, at No. 14 East Sixty-second street, and fourteen men are accused. Five of the "suspects" were prisoners in court to-day and nine others are under surveillance.

Annie Thornton was abused by these men on the night of Oct. 6 in a stable at No. 261 West Sixty-fourth street. It was reported to the police within a few hours, but secrecy was maintained in running down the prisoners.

As a general thing, policemen do not take much trouble in the case of a girl lured by a gang of brutes and mistreated because the guilty ones are hard to catch, and many of the complaints are found to be unwarranted. But in the case of Annie Thornton Mr. Wormser took a personal and active interest. The detectives of the West Sixty-eighth street station worked night and day against big difficulties, and they believe that their efforts have been crowned with success.

An Incentive for Work.

That a girl could be dragged off a public street in the heart of this well-policed city and treated as Annie Thornton was treated was another incentive to work on the part of the detectives. For it is the boast of all Police Commissioners that New York is the safest city in the world for women on the streets alone at night. The Thornton girl had a birthday on Oct. 2. Mrs. Wormser gave her a present of $50 and told her she could take the afternoon and evening off. She left the Wormser mansion at noon and went to visit friends on the lower west side. Early in the morning of Oct. 7 she staggered into the West Sixty-eighth street station with most of her clothing torn from her body. She was scarcely able to speak, but the sergeant in charge gathered from her statements that she had been forcibly dragged into a bar in the vicinity by two men who

COLD WAVE ON ITS WAY TO NEW YORK

Real Touch of Winter Due to Strike this City with Coming Storm.

"Northwest storm warnings ordered from Delaware Breakwater to New York. Disturbances over Virginia and New York will move eastward, causing brisk to high southwest to northwest winds this afternoon and to-night, with rapidly falling temperature."—Weather Bureau Bulletin.

New York will get her first real taste of winter for the season to-night. Forecaster Emery declares that it will be cold enough for heavy overcoats.

Jack Frost is coming on the wings of the wind, which has been rattling windows and hurrying that clouds about the sky to all to-day.

New Yorkers thought to-day that the wind portended rain. The sky was overcast and the air seemed soft and mild. It was even sultry, but it was only the forerunner of a chilly blast which is bound from the West. This storm gathered strength somewhere in Virginia. It swept over the Delaware Breakwater, and now it is lashing the sea into fury.

"That wind storm extends from the southern Lakes to the Carolinas," said Mr. Emery. "Cold has been gathering in the Northwest for some time and it will follow the wind east."

GIANTS' GAME IN SLOWTOWN IS POSTPONED

Umpires Didn't Want Team to Take Chance on Wet Grounds.

DECISION COMES LATE.

Crowd Had Gathered Early and Filled Up the Baseball Park.

(Special to The Evening World.) COLUMBIA BALL PARK, Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 11.—Umpires O'Day and Sheridan decided this afternoon that the grounds were in no condition for the playing of a world's championship game between the Giants and Athletics. They went out during the early drizzle and inspected the grounds, finding that they were in no condition to play.

Thousands who had bought their seats in advance were notified that they could exchange their tickets for seats at the next game. This announcement quieted the great throng that had come out for the game. The two teams were on the field at 3 o'clock this afternoon, the weather then promising a splendid opportunity for a game. The Giants arrived first with their quota of fans who had declared their purpose of following McGraw's chances until the final flutter of the flag in defeat. Fully two thousand fans accompanied the Giants to Philadelphia for the postponement of a game.

There was every prospect of play until about 3 o'clock, when it began to drizzle. The Quaker aggregation had turned out in thousands hours before the gates of the ball park had opened.

The Giants and their followers had revolved about the leading hotels offering odds of 10 to 1 if Christy Mathewson was going to pitch. If he did not pitch the betting was arranged at even money, thousands being offered on both sides.

Teams Well Matched. On both sides it was realized that the two teams were splendidly matched, that the Giants had not one whit the better of it in all around team work.

McGraw declared that he had the best pitching staff and Connie Mack felt that he knew that his team suffered through the absence of Rube Waddell.

However, there did not seem to be much the matter with the Indian, Bender, yesterday and his peerless line of slants.

The Athletics will have up their sleeve the Wizard Cookley, who is gauged in the same class with Christy Mathewson, though he will now have his first opportunity of showing himself against the young college two.

It read: "Look for girl about eighteen, light complexion, dark hair and eyes, 240 pounds, 5 feet 2 inches tall and white, white waist with gold crescent pin with white stone, black stockings and shoes, black hat, black belt, brass lock in center; white underwear; gold ring; no white stone and several small marks."

BY FRANK W. THORP.

(Special to The Evening World.) BELMONT RACE TRACK, Oct. 11.—There was a fairly interesting card at Belmont this afternoon with the Champagne Stakes at seven furlongs for two-year-olds a feature, as well as the New Rochelle Stakes for three-year-olds and up, at a mile. There were excellent fields in each race.

The attendance was below the average, however, for the weather threatened rain, and many who were interested in baseball went over to the Quaker City.

Betting was lively, however, for the fields were well matched. A few showers of rain fell, but not enough to muddy the track.

Gamara Closed Fast.

Preen went to the front right after the start and made the running, followed by Brother Frank, Gamara and Halbert in close order. They held this order to the stretch, where Gamara closed on Preen and in a drive won by a neck from Preen, who was two lengths in front of Zeale.

Klamasha Won Easily.

Klamasha went to the front at the start, and Sir Brillar took second place. These two led the race to the finish. Klamasha widened in front all the way, and won easily by a length and a half from Sir Brillar, who was second all the way. Dreamer closed on Jacquin in the stretch, but Jacquin held his own in the drive that followed. None of the others were near.

Perverse Won Handily.

Security went to the front soon after the start and made the running, followed by Whitney's Meddler, Perverse and Halbert. They held this order to the last quarter, where Whitney's Meddler and Perverse closed on Security and passed him, in the last furlong Perverse under a
